

Amy accepted Christ as her Lord and Savior in second grade at a Christian School here in the Phoenix area. She attended Baylor University where she pursued her degree in Social Work and re-connected with her future husband Bill to whom she has been married to for 27 years. After working in the social work field for several years, she quit to stay at home and raise her 3 children. She has been involved in the same church for 27 years in a variety of leadership capacities. She also was involved with a local women's Bible study, Homemakers by choice for 12 years which culminated with her serving as the lead teacher. She is now teaching a Bible Study called Grace Based Woman at her church. She has a heart for women and their role as Godly women, wives, mothers and keepers of the home. Amy's passion is serving these women and teaching them to recognize their purpose as women of God. She loves to spend time with family and friends.
